Recycling program survives budget ax

by Dan Sanderson Staff Writer

Nearly all governmental units have found funds in their budgets to continue offering recycling to outlying areas in Crawford County.

Beaver Creek and South Branch Township agreed to pitch in $1,500 to support county-wide recycling. Lovells Township, Frederic Township and Maple Forest Township each agreed to pay $500. The Crawford County Board of Commissioners pledged $2,000 to hire another recycling center employee.

The $6,500 will pay a part-time employee to work up to 14 hours a week at the recycling center located on North Down River Road.

Crawford County and Grayling Township officials are still waiting for a $2,000 contribution requested from the City of Grayling.

Grayling City Manager David Thayer said more discussion on recycling center operations and the funds being requested is needed before the city pledges any money toward the operation.

In November, Grayling Charter Township officials said it could not afford to subsidize labor at the recycling center for other municipalities in the current econom-

Blizzardfest raises nearly $1,000 for youth programs

by Matt Seager Staff Writer

The Grayling Youth Booster Club has a reputation for hosting inventive recreational fund-raisers. Last weekend, they raised hundreds of dollars playing an unusual win-sle. ter sport: golf.

Not surprisingly, the Saturday fund-raiser, called "Blizzardfest," featured some rule tweaks on account of the weather. In place of the traditional green fairway, twelve teams played on the frozen surface of Lake Margrethe.

Golf clubs were still the preferred means of play, although a few hockey sticks could be seen scattered around the frigid fairway, and tennis balls were substituted for the traditional golf balls.

This is the second year that supporters of the Booster Club have teed off on the frozen lake, although this is considered to be the "First Annual Blizzardfest." The golf idea came about after the organization decided that ice fishing would be too much of a has-

Input on I-75 Business Loop rebuild encouraged

by Dan Sanderson Staff Writer

Business owners and city residents are being encouraged to attend two upcoming meetings to voice their opinions on the 1-75 Business Loop reconstruction project.

The project, which will reconstruct the roadway from M-72 East to M-72 West, is slated to begin in April and end in October. Residents, business owners and managers, vendors, customers and service providers are encouraged to attend the Grayling City Council meeting at 7 p.m. on Monday, March 9, at the Grayling City Hall to voice their concerns on how the project will impact their businesses. City officials will be encouraged to work Michigan the with Department

Transportation (MDOT) to develop a plan that brings traffic downtown rather than by-passing businesses.

"In our community, what hurts one, hurts all," said Gaila Gilliland, economic development director for the Crawford County Economic Development Partnership.

People are also encouraged to write letters that will be presented to Grayling City Manager David Thayer and all Grayling City Council members. Gilliland would like to have the letters in hand by Friday, March 13.

The second meeting is an open house that MDOT will hold from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. and 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. on Wednesday, March 25.

The open house will give area residents and business owners an opportunity to talk one-on-one with MDOT officials regarding the 2009 road construction project.

Kirtland, COOR ISD officials hope to spark interest in open board seats

by Dan Sanderson Staff Writer

A resignation on the Kirtland Community College Board of Trustees and the lack of candidates running for the Crawford, Oscoda, Ogemaw and Roscommon Intermediate School District (COOR ISD) board prompted officials to put a call out to the public for potentially qualified board members.

Four six-year positions are open on the COOR ISD Board of Trustees, but only three incumbent board members are seeking reelection.

The Kirtland Community College Board of Trustees plans to fill a vacancy for a term that is set to expire on June 30. The person appointed may opt to run as a write-in candidate on the May 5 school election ballot while other write-in candidates may also file to run for the seat.

Grayling residents Bernadine Dosch, who has served on the board for 13 years, and Nancy Persing, who has been on the board for seven years, are running to retain their COOR ISD board seats.

Robert J. Carpenter, the current president of the COOR ISD Board Mio, is also seeking to continue serving on the board.

Board Trustee John "Jack" Pilon of Grayling, who was appointed to fill a two years ago, is not seeking re-election.

Pilon, Michigan Department of Natural Resources forest planner, said he wants to devote more time to the Knights of Columbus in Grayling and COOR ISD board meetings conflict with the organization's meetings. Pilon is also one of five assistant Scout Masters Grayling's Boy Scouts of America Troop #995. troop.

Robert Jones, superintendent of the COOR ISD, said the board will remain focused on early childhood development initiatives in the next few years. Jones added that maintaining services and programs offered in the school's four-county service area will be an issue the board will address.

"We would like to have more people interested in serving the community and running for election," Jones said. "I think it's one of the more important offices to get elected to, to support the education of our children, and I and our board would really encourage people to come forward."

Jones said that the current economic recession will be a huge issue with budgets, problem with ISDs for the last decade.

"That's been an ongoing struggle, the state just can't reconcile what they're taking in in taxes and how to give their fair share back to the communities we serve," Jones said, "I know they're working on it, but they don't have their arms around it yet."

At Kirtland Community College, Trustee Roy Spangler, retired a Michigan State University Extension director for Crawford County, is running for another term on the board.

Trustee Sally Gaylor, of Mio, resigned from her seat on Feb. 19 to devote more time to taking care of her elderly parents.

Dr. Thomas Quinn, the president of Kirtland Community College, said the board hopes to fill the vacancy at its Thursday, March 19, meeting. The appointee will serve out the remainder of Gaylor's term through June 30 and may file to run as a write-in candidate in the May election.

"We're just asking them to serve out the remainder of the term, but if they choose not to run as a writein candidate on the ballot, we could conceivably reappoint them after July 1," Quinn said.

Quinn said that board members would be involved in solving the need of establishing student housing near vacancy on the board about which has been an ongoing the college. The board is Ann Bonk at 275-5923.

also updating and implementing a new strategic plan for the college. The board will also finalize plans and hire a contractor for a $502,000 job to restructure the college's well and water system. Finally, the board will continue to study and review new programs, replace the college's child care center, implement green energy savings initiatives and negotiate faculty contracts.

"The next few years are going to be very busy at the college and we have a lot of strategic initiatives going on," Quinn said.

Crawford County Clerk/Register of Deeds Sandra Moore said the deadline to file as a write-in candidate for the available Kirtland and COOR ISD seats is 4 p.m. on Friday, April 24.

Moore said a Kirtland Community College alumni would be perfect for the Kirtland Board and a retired educator would be a good fit for the COOR ISD Board.

"The fact that we have these vacancies I don't want to go unnoticed and I would encourage people to get involved in the process," Moore said.

Anyone interested in running as a write-in candidate must file a declaration of intent by April 24. For more information, contact Roscommon County Clerk/Register of Deeds place of the home, said Art Clough, assistant fire chief for the Grayling Fire Department.

Firefighters from the Beaver Creek Township Fire Department and the Frederic Township Fire Department assisted at the scene.

The fire damaged a breezeway of the home. Firefighters, who remained at the scene until noon on Monday, had a difficult time putting out hot spots due to a double roof connecting the breezeway to the home, Clough said.

A bulldozer from Jack Millikin Excavating Inc. was eventually brought to the scene to knock down the breezeway. The home and the garage are still standing.

Firefighters braved 20below temperatures while they battled the blaze.

"It was really difficult to work around the extreme weather conditions," Clough said.

Clarification

In an article which ran in the Feb. 26 edition of the Avalanche, titled "Snappy resolution reached for Beaver Creek Township Fire Chief's alleged fuel tax violation," it stated that Beaver Creek Township Supervisor Brian Ashton said the fire department and fuel sales to Mobile Medical Response Inc. ambulance service will be on the agenda for the next township board meeting scheduled for Monday, March 9.

Ashton said the issue will not be on the agenda for the meeting since an apparent resolution has been reached in the matter.

Economic development officials seek involvement in task force for retailers

by Dan Sanderson Staff Writer

Getting Crawford County residents to shop in Grayling and developing a united marketing plan for businesses and events were two topics raised by economic development officials at a "retail roundtable" last week.

The Crawford County Development Economic Partnership Board (CCEDP), a group of governmental, school and business officials, devoted a portion of their meeting at the Grayling Charter Township Hall last Thursday to area retailers. Officials are seeing what they can do to help retailers in the current tough economic climate and to bring more people through their doors.

Gaila Gilliland, economic development director for the CCEDP, said Crawford County residents have traveled out of town for years for medical services and entertainment, taking retail and service dollars out of Grayling. At the same time, landmark downtown businesses such as Chief Shoppenagon's and Ben closed Franklin Michigan Avenue's traditional role in business has changed.

Loss of these key businesses has hurt smaller businesses due to a lack of foot traffic, creating a significant number of vacant building and commercial spaces.

Now, local economic development officials want to capitalize on Grayling's Downtown Development Authority streetscape project, which was completed in the spring of 2008. The new look, complete with flowers, landscaping, additional parking and some upgraded store facades, has created a more welcoming atmosphere downtown.

Jamie Greer, the owner of J. Dap Co., said the retail community needs a devoted marketing plan that would involve all community organizations.

On July 14, a Grayling promotional spot developed by the CCEDP will begin airing on TV 7 & 4.

Greer added that the downtown has gained a stigma for having too many vacant storefronts, while business owners are trying to promote a small town atmosphere and the unique items they have to offer.

"I just get so tired of people emphasizing that and not focusing on what we do have to offer," Greer said.

Greer recommended targeting a marketing plan to downstate urban communities, such as Bay City and Saginaw, that may come north to enjoy Grayling's natural resources tourism.

"There are a lot of businesses that can't wait two to three years for this to come to fruition," Greer said.

According to Hilary Owen, project engineer for the Michigan Department of Transportation's Grayling Service Center, the average daily traffic count in downtown Grayling is 15,000 vehicles. Capturing 5 percent more traffic could mean $2 million more in business sales. If downtown could capture just 5 percent more traffic than it does now, it would draw more than 700 additional vehicles. If those customers spent an average of only $10 per vehicle, six days per week, the result would bring an additional $2 million plus into the local economy annually. Spending $50 per vehicle could mean $10 million in additional Greer said that employers large workforces should encourage their employees to shop locally. She said downtown businesses had a good holiday season when more people were coming through their doors and buying gifts.

"It may be slowly working into their thought process, but there is still an awful lot of people that go out of town to shop," Greer said.

Marvin Myers, a CCEDP board member and the owner of Myers Land Survey Company, noted that Merritt Speedway in nearby Missaukee County needs $2 million just to break even for the upcoming racing season. He said race promoters are offering discounted tickets by zip code for people who live close to the race track, and hope to make up their money in concession sales.

"They need people in the stands to make this work," Myers said.

Greer said that the Grayling Uptown Business District Association has been active for 25 to 30 years, making sure business owners are represented in local issues. Greer said the group has worked to help organize the community's Harvest Fest, the annual Christmas Walk and are hoping to spark interest in an event in conjunction with the nation's Flag Day on June 14.

Greer said it is difficult for some business owners to be involved in community planning and marketing since they have to man their stores during the current economic recession.

"There are not a lot of us down there so it's the same five of us and we do it all," Greer said.

Gilliland said Watershed Art Project, formed through the CCEDP, is gathering steam.

In 2007, Grayling building contractor Scott McClain slowly organized a team of individuals committed to using the arts as a way to revitalize downtown.

In November 2007, the Watershed Art Project hosted an art show in conjunction with the Christmas

Walk, which 700 people attended.

Last year, the Watershed Art Project held its first Spring Art Walk in conjunction with the opening of trout season. The Watershed Art Project's Mystery Mural was unveiled during the July 4th weekend. The second annual Spring Art Walk will be held in April, and another Mystery Mural will be unveiled in October.

"As a result of the tireless effort of Scott McClain and his team, Grayling is becoming known as an artisan community," Gilliland said.

Myers recommended that retailers consider geocaching promotions. Geocaching is a high-tech treasure hunting game played throughout the world by adventure seekers equipped with GPS devices. The basic idea is to locate hidden containers, called geocaches, and then share your experiences online.

"You'll get people in because they'll all be looking for bargains," Myers said.

The CCEDP is recommending other methods that could be used to help rebrand the downtown business district as a desirable place to shop and do business. These include:

- · Using electronic message signs.
- Recruiting Kirtland Community College to locate a satellite facility downtown.
- Offering a facade loan program with $10,000 grants separate from Crawford County's revolving facade loan program.
- · Creating a full-time artisan presence downtown.

"Downtown retailers should recognize this as a true opportunity to focus on personalized service, unique goods and services and a hometown atmosphere with reasonable prices and good quality," Gilliland said.

"Reach Out Food Drive" to begin on Friday

by Matt Seager Staff Writer

As the nationwide recesdeepens, many Crawford County residents are more committed than ever to supporting local relief efforts. Sometimes, tough conditions can bring out the very best in people. This certainly seems to be the case with the "Reach Out Food Drive," a brand new charity event organized by Davis Jewelers employees Becky Knepper and Natalie Majeski.

The food drive, which officially kicks off on Friday, is a multifaceted project designed to bring in essential food and resources for the Crawford County Community Christian (CCCC) Help Center. The last day of the collection will be on Mar. 21.

"We're trying to find lots of food for the families," Majeski said.

This project is not headed by any established community charity. Majeski said that she and Knepper simply saw a need and decided to act.

"Obviously, economic times are hard for everybody," Majeski said.

Rather than simply asking for food and donations, the women are centering their efforts around a series of activities and prizes.

"We're trying to have it fun for the public, too," Majeski said.

The drive begins at 6 p.m. on Friday, Mar. 6, with the monthly open mic night event at Thanks a Latte coffee shop. Rather than paying a cover charge, event attendees are asked to donate non-perishable food items.

* * * 1

On Mar. 13, Davis Jewelers will be offering free appraisals for up to three items in exchange for a bag of food.

Throughout the drive, anyone who makes a donation at a participating dropoff destination will be registered for a drawing to win a $25 gift certificate from a Grayling business.

Several local businesses are donating gift certificates, including Davis Jewelers, J. Dap, Parrott's Perch, Riverland Gear, Flowers By Josie/Thanks A North Country Latte, Corner, The Ice House, Salon Rue, Moore's Automotive, Taco Bell, Wendy's, The Crawford County Avalanche, B.C. Pizza and Dubois Lumber.

"For everyone to cough up cash donations and gift certificates, I think is pretty awesome," Majeski said. "It says a lot for this community and their care."

Majeski and Knepper have not limited their efforts just to businesses. They've gotten everybody from Boy Scout troups to local doctors lending their support.

"I'm trying to get everybody in the community involved," Majeski said.

She said they've already had a great response, despite the fact that the drive hasn't even officially begun. One individual even donated $500 for the purchase of essential goods.

Event organizers emphasized that this event is about more than just food. The CCCC Help Center provided them with a list of needs that includes several common food items such as spaghetti, juice, cereal and virtually any canned item.

But there is also a need

for basic household items such as shampoo, toothpaste, bar soap, dish soap and diapers. Cash donations are also accepted.

Marianne Gosnell, interim director for the CCCC Help Center, explained that families who use bridge cards for food purchases are often unable to afford household items that a bridge card will not cover. For these families, the help center is an essential resource.

"Sometimes we have people come in who just need special items," Gosnell said. "There is a demand for it."

For Knepper and Majeski, the event is a way to give back to the community that they love.

"I feel blessed that I have a job and the people of Grayling continue to support the downtown merchants," Majeski said. "It's just been neat for me to experience how much people care for each other."

Drop off locations include J. Dap, Riverland Gear, Thanks A Latte, Davis Jewelers, Scott McNamara Ford, Moore's Automotive, Scheer Motors, North Country Corner, The Ice House, The Bicycle Shop, Basic Communications, Dr. Laurey Hanselman's Family Practice and Re-Max of Grayling.

Gosnell said the drive is sure to make a real differ-

"This is fantastic ... it will help to fill our coffers. Whether it's food or money, it's going to help," she said.

Issues and DITIOIS

THE NATION'S top court may be about to shed light and offer guidance on the vexing problem of how judicial campaigns in states such as Michigan should be conducted.

Or maybe not.

The question of financing judicial election campaigns is involved in a West Virginia case due to come before the Supreme Court of the United States.

Central figure is the chief justice of the West Virginia Supreme Court. An executive of Massey Energy Co. poured at least $3 million, or 60 percent of his total campaign funds, into the 2004 campaign to help Republican Brent Benjamin - described in an Associated Press article as "a little lawyer known from Charleston" - defeat an incumbent Democratic jus- · undue favoritism, pure and

New Justice Benjamin then helped form a 3-2 court majority in two separate votes to overturn a jury's

by Richard Milliman

How much money is too much money?

Massey company valued at about $82 million.

Should Justice Benjamin have recused himself – that is, declined to take part – in matters involving his political benefactor?

Once the votes are counted and the election is over, how or why should the winning judge be limited in court activities? When and under what circumstances should a judge step aside?

Justice Benjamin argued that he had no personal or financial stake in the outcome of the case, one way or another, and claimed he had voted against the Massey company at least four other times in other matters.

TO A CASUAL outsider, such as this one, the West Virginia case looks like simple, and the campaigning judge should have recused himself.

But where is the line? Can $3 million in contributions help buy $82 million ally are open in support of in benefit? If so, that's a good deal for the donor. But if $3 million is the price for recusal, where does outrage begin? At $1 million, or $500,000? Where does stepaside set in?

How much influence is too much influence?

Campaigns for the Michigan Supreme Court produce their own dilemmas of propriety. Last year one seat on the seven-member court was up for election, and the campaign devoured an estimated $7.3 million before the Democratic candidate, Diane Hathaway, unseated the incumbent Republican chief justice, Cliff Taylor.

Origin of more than half of those funds are untraceable, according to campaign finance reporting, but both candidates should have some idea of the identity of their backers.

Taking the scenario a step further, business interests such as the Michigan Chamber of Commerce usuRepublican candidate for the court.

Just so, the Michigan AFL-CIO, UAW, and teachers unions generally support Democratic candidates. Contributions generally are significant.

When the specific interests of these pressure groups are involved in court cases, should any of the justices recuse themselves? Where does the sympathy of the justices rest? The answer is obvious. Interest groups support the judicial candidates who reflect the viewpoints and goals of their campaign supporters and sponsors.

But how much influence is too much influence?

IN 2010, TWO incumbent Republican supreme court justices will be up for election, and the campaigning will be severe for those seats. The $7.3 million spent for a single court seat last year could be miniscule compared to the 2010 cam-

Electing supreme court justices - and other judges, for that matter - lends itself to the sort of court system that may be developing where justice sometimes seems to go to the highest

It will take the wisdom of a whole gaggle of robed Solomons, either Washington or in Lansing, to come up with anything that will cover all instances of when judges should properly and ethically step to one side.

The question is not only one of fairness; it also is a question of appearance of fairness. Both are important for public confidence in our judicial system.

DOCTOR'S ADVICE - A few years ago, when I was feeling lousy, I visited my doctor. He told me I had the flu, and I had two alternatives.

I could be given a shot and take some pills and other medicines, and in two weeks the flu would be gone, and I would be better.

Or I could do nothing, and in two weeks the flu would be gone, and I would be bet-

I took the second option, and the doctor was right.

Then I consider the financial mess the country faces these days, and the bailouts and loans and projects and other remedies currently proposed or underway, along with the prospect that in about two years, everything will be better.

Would my doctor's advice about the flu work on the economy, too? Probably not, but I wonder anyway.

Letters to the Editor

Petitions need to be signed to stop the move of the senior center to the old fish hatchery building

To the editor:

This is a call for all registered voting age adults and all residents of Crawford County to come to the aid of the senior citizen population.

As you know, the Commission on Aging Board has announced their intention of placing the senior center in the old fish hatchery building. Over a year ago, they started their due process, with the old fish hatchery at the top of the list, knowing all along that is where they would place the center. The Steering Committee, the COA Board, the county commissioners and Terry Wright had to get this "white elephant" off their back, so they are trying to stick it to the senior popu-Steering lation. The Committee admitted they couldn't raise enough money to rehabilitate this old dump. They managed to get it on the "historical" list to get a portion of rehabilitation from that. Then evidently they, along with the COA, tried for grants. They weren't successful enough in that move or with donations. COA Board member Helen Nolan stated at the COA Board Meeting on Feb. 17 that she did not think a millage would pass at this time, due to the economy. She made a motion to go for a bond. Her motion passed.

At an earlier meeting at the township hall, I asked commissioner Mike Lange about the old wood not being fire retardant. He stated it could be sprayed. This wood has been standing since 1948, and back then there was not fire retardant lumber. It is completely dried out and no amount of spraying will make it fire retardant. Mike, you can fool some of the people some of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time. I told you a year ago I knew there was an "under the table" deal.

Then, there are the residents at the housing complex who rely on hot meals because they are too old to cook. I asked director Snyder how she would continue the meal program. She stated she would confer with Jenny, the housing director, on how they could make arrangements for senior residents. Also, she said "Meals on Wheels" would be the most likely.

We need 10 percent or more registered voters of Crawford County to sign a petition to stop the move to this rotted old building. We'll have no parking space, if any, and then comes a millage regardless of where the center will be placed. This is a small town with very little industry and there is no way you can expect people to back you when they are losing their jobs, their homes and there isn't any income. Their families come before your dreams. I am going to get petitions made for registered voters and I ask for volunteers to take a petition (you must be a registered voter) and get as many to sign. Again, I must stress that we only have 45 days to get signatures. You can reach me at 989-344-9490. Leave your name, address and telephone number for me if I do not answer.

A request for the survey company that zoned the theme park area

To the editor:

When the land survey was done for the theme park, they left 3' x 3' crosses made from sheet metal on the ground. I assume they were for aerial surveillance. Please go back and pick them up. I assume you have the GPS coordinates of where each was placed.

Not only are they an eyesore, but they can cause injury. I've seen people slip and fall on them, when there is snow on the ground, and they cut the paw of my dog.

They have been out there for over a year now. Each is marked with a ribboned stake.

Traffic nightmare to begin

To the editor:

The contract has been awarded and work is to begin in April. The plan is to convert the I-75 Business Loop through Grayling from two lanes in each direction to one lane, plus a center left turn lane. Completion is not until sometime in 2010.

Not to worry, MDOT has it planned so that one whole lane southbound remain open to traffic.

MDOT's stated motive is to reduce the number of accidents. They claim that recent lane conversions in Gaylord and Alpena have resulted in a reduction of crashes by over 80 percent.

This may be true for them, but neither Gaylord or Alpena has the huge amount of traffic that flows through Grayling going to and from the Traverse City area on any summer weekend, not to mention the hol-

My math tells me that when you reduce traffic from two lanes to one, just to come out even, you must double the length of time the green light allows traffic to move through an intersection.

This new system will not do that and traffic through town will be slower. Slower traffic means more stopping and going, causing more accidents than ever.

MDOT has confidence in their plan, but just in case, heaven forbid they are wrong, provisions are being made so that the process can be reversed and we could see four lanes again.

Resident disappointed with cab

To the editor: I just want to know if there is a regulation on cab drivers? I used a cab last week and was very disappointed. They were 15 minutes late to start with and when I got in, it was a pig sty. There were food containers, empty pop cans and old coffee cups all over the floor and the smell was awful.

The driver was falling asleep and she only drove 35 miles an hour, though the roads were not bad. This, I felt, was a real hazard to me and the other drivers on the road. I hope that no one gets hurt riding with this company, I would never recommend them.

Grayling to host presentation on community response to poverty

Dr. Donna Beegle, a nationally renowned expert on poverty, will make a series of presentations in northern Michigan to lay the foundation for a community response to poverty. Beegle grew up in generational poverty, dropped out of high school at age 15, was a divorced mother of two facing homelessness at 25 and yet by age 35 had attained her PhD.

On March 25, from 8:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., Beegle will do a presentation at the Days Inn Conference Center in Grayling. Beegle is a powerful and inspirational speaker. She will dispel common beliefs about poverty, those who are poor, the harsh realities of their lives and the barriers that prevent them from moving forward. She will share her story of struggle and success and will provide the spark to recruit, motivate and mobilize efforts in your community to reduce poverty.

Poverty impacts us all. The daily crisis for those living in poverty, the stress on the community's health, human services and educational systems, lost productivity for employers, and a reduced tax base for local governments.

We must accept the reality that poverty exists in our communities. National statistics indicate that nearly one in three people cannot afford to meet basic needs.

Poverty can be invisible in rural areas but people can successfully move out of poverty.

Poverty is expensive and it deprives our communities of valuable resources by creating barriers that prevent individuals from realizing their full potential.

Local understanding of the issues will lead to local solutions.

Dr. Beegle's presentation in March is a part of the For Action Voices Network's efforts in our northern Michigan region to address poverty. In 2008, November, statewide poverty summit was held in Detroit with the Michigan Department of Human Services making a firm commitment to support poverty reduction initiatives throughout the state. As part of Region II, Crawford County is joined by Alcona, Alpena, Antrim, Benzie, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Emmet, Grand Traverse, losco, Kalkaska, Manistee, Leelanau, Missaukee, Montmorency, Oscoda, Ogemaw, Otsego, Presque Isle, Roscommon and Wexford counties. The priority goals established for this region are: 1) job creation, 2) expanding access to early childhood education and 3) linking services for families to schools. Each county within the region will be putting a steering committee together to determine how to best bring resources together at a local level to not only address the priority goals stated above, but to also address other pressing issues related to poverty.

There are numerous indicators of the poor economic conditions we face in Crawford County, but the most disturbing have to do with the impact poverty has children. our According to the KIDS Count in Michigan Data Book 2008, 54 percent of Crawford County schoolaged youth receive free or reduced price lunches. Of parents working a full-time

minimum wage job, those that have young children devote 34 percent of this income to paying for child

In Michigan, according to the Department of Labor and Economic Growth, the current minimum wage is $7.40 per hour. would translate into $15,392 before taxes at a 40-hour work week. If 34 percent of that amount is spent on child care per year, that only leaves $10,159 before taxes for the parent/child to live on for an entire year.

Poverty no longer represents those who are unwilling to work, those whose families have lived for generations entrenched in poverty, or those who are dealing with other issues such as mental and physical disabilities that impact their ability to find and/or hold employment. Poverty impacts us all.

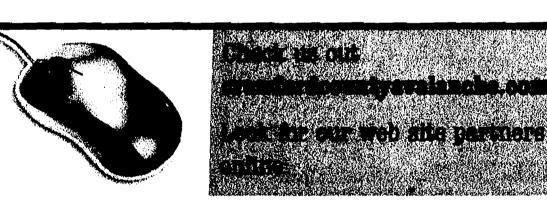

The Crawford County Collaborative Body is taking reservations Beegle's Grayling presentation and seating is very limited. They are hoping those who attend will remain committed to working on this issue and become part of the local steering committee guiding the activity in our community to combat poverty.

If you are interested in attending the workshop, contact the Crawford Collaborative County Cindy Coordinator, DeLadurantaye, at 344-9335 to make reservations.

The Bible Speaks

us to God's final statement

No Separation from God's Love

Romans 8 is the strongest doctrinal chapter in the Bible giving us complete assurance of eternal salvation. It begins with no condemnation and ends with no separation. Can we trust God's person? Is answered in Romans 8:31: "If God be for us, who can be against us?" Can we trust God's work of love? Is answered in Romans 8:32: "He that spared not his own Son, but delivered him up for us all, how shall he not with him also freely give us all things?" Can we trust God's justice? Is answered in Romans 8:33: "33Who shall lay any thing to the charge of God's elect? It is God that justifieth." Can we trust God's judgment? Is answered in Romans 8:34: "Who is he that condemneth? It is Christ that died, yea rather, that is risen again, who is even at the right hand of God, who also maketh intercession for us." Can we trust God's continuing love? answered in Romans 8:35, "Who shall separate us from the love of Christ?" Through God's love we are more than conquerors in Romans 8:36,37.

giving us complete assurance that nothing anywhere, anyway, anyhow, can ever separate us from God's love: "38For I am persuaded, that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, 39Nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord." Are you fully persuaded that nothing in either death or life can separate you from God's love, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord? Are you fully persuaded that no angels, no principalities, or no powers of any kind or anywhere can separate you from God's love, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord? Are you fully persuaded that nothing in the present time or future eternity can ever separate you from God's love, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord? Are you fully persuaded that nothing from the highest heaven to the deepest hell can separate you from God's love, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord? Are you fully persuaded that no other creature of any kind or anywhere, can in anyway separate you from God's love, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord?

In case of any doubt or question, we share Paul's prayer for the saints in Ephesians 3:18,19 that you: "18May be able to comprehend with all saints what is the breadth, and length, and depth, and height; 19And to know the love of Christ, which passeth knowledge, that ye might be filled with all the fulness of God."

Jesus taught us in John 10:27-30: "27My sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me: 28And I give unto them eternal life; and they shall never perish, neither shall any man pluck them out of my hand. 29My Father, which gave them me, is greater than all; and no man is able to pluck them out of my Father's hand. 30I and my Father are one." We are secure in the hands of the Father and the Son. As Colossians 3:3 promised us: "3For ye are dead, and your life is hid with Christ in God." Pastor

Youth raise funds to battle hunger with Will Starve for Food campaign

Teens from the Mt. Hope Lutheran Church youth group got involved in World Vision's Will Starve for Food campaign for a second year in row last weekend, going without food for 30 hours to get a taste of what the world's poorest children and families face every day. The teens were joined by youth leaders Jessie Schutte, Suzanne Harmon and Renee Smith.

Pledges were raised in advance, with the understanding that every $30 the teens raised could help feed and care for a child for a month. Teens in the youth group, as well as some friends, stayed at the church on Friday night. They played a game called Tribe, where they took on the identity of children living in thirdworld countries and practiced the survival skills they use to stay alive. The teens were separated into different groups representing Peru, Brazil, Colombia, Bolivia and Ecuador. The game included an endurance test where the youth had to hold a gallon of water at a 90 degree angle to simulate how families walk for several miles just to get fresh water. They simulated crossing a river to learn team work, participated in a relay race and learned about poverty issues.

According to a hunger fact sheet provided by World Vision:

• A total of 143 children under age 5 in developing countries are underweight because of poor nutrition.

• Of the 6.6 billion people in today's world, 2.1 billion people live on less than $2 per day.

In the United States: • 35.5 million people including 12.6 million children - live in households that experience hunger or the risk of hunger, representing one in 10 households in the country. Members of these households have low quality diets or must resort to seeking emergency food assistance because they cannot always afford the food they need. Preschool and school aged children who experience severe hunger have higher levels of chronic illness, anxiety, depression and behavior problems than children with no hunger.

Also on Friday, the youth group held a prayer walk around the community. They said a prayer at Camp

Grayling's Maneuver Area Training Equipment Site for the men and women currently deployed in Iraq and Afghanistan, They also prayed at the Grayling School, Grayling High School and the City of Grayling's AuSable River Park for youth dealing with peer pressure, bullying and drug and alcohol use.

On Saturday, the youth volunteered at the Devereaux Memorial Crawford County Library for about an hour, dusting shelves, straightening up shelves, making sure books were in their proper place and disinfecting computer keyboards and monitors.

Jeri Selthoffer, president of the Crawford County Library Board, said it is wonderful to see teens getting involved in the commu-

"I can't think of a better place to volunteer than the library because the library benefits everyone that takes advantage of its services," Selthoffer said.

The teens also visited residents at Mercy Manor and gave them decorative crosses made out of wooden matches, which had been lit to give an artistic edge to the multi-dimensional crosses.

Mary Bonkowksi, a Mercy Manor resident, said it warmed her heart to visit with the youth and receive a "Most everyone just loved them and they're just beautiful," Bonkowksi said.

Torrey Messerschmidt, a member of Mt. Hope Lutheran Church's youth group, said she was tickled to brighten the seniors' day.

"If felt nice because the people loved them so much and thought they were great," she said.

The youth group spent most of the remainder of the afternoon playing Tribe.

"Even when they had free time, they wanted to play Tribe," Harmon said. "They liked taking on the identity of these children and learning what they go through every day."

Following a clean-up of the church, the teens were quarantined with their sense of smell, taste buds and eyes as far from the church kitchen as possible. After the 30 hours was complete, the teens were served with an Italian feast including lasagna, spaghetti, pizza, chicken alfredo, fresh baked rolls and berry par-

This year, teens from the Mt. Hope Lutheran Church raised $643 through the 30 Hour Famine as of Monday and have a goal to raise $700. Above, Matt Dunckel and Michael Harmon are pictured giving a cross to Mercy Manor resident Robert Cadwallader.

Last year, the teens raised about $567 and also visited the AuSable Valley Animal Shelter. This year, the teens raised $643 as of Monday and have a goal to raise $700. A famine service was held at the Mt. Hope Lutheran Church Sunday, where more donations were received from the church's congregation. Michael Harmon, a youth group member who has participated in the Will Starve for Food campaign for two years, said going through the 30 hours on nothing but juice was worth it to help the needy.

"It shows you can help people live better lives for a minimum amount of money per day," Harmon said. "It helps you feel what they feel for a weekend."

Funds raised from the Will Starve For Food campaign helps feed and care for children in povertyafflicted countries around the globe, including families in need in the United States.

The 30 Hour Famine funds contribute to World Vision's response to areas where famine, conflict and other crises make children vulnerable to hunger and preventable diseases. Since 1992, the 30 Hour Famine has raised more than $188 million. The organization works in 100 countries, helping approximately 100 million people every year.

Schutte noted that 40,000 children under age 5 died per day when the 30 Hour Famine started, and through the efforts of World Vision and other relief efforts, now 26,000 children are dying per day from preventable diseases such as malnutrition, malaria, diarrhea and acute respiratory infections.

"With the population growth, it's pretty amazing it's down that much,' Schutte said.

Family completes $500,000 pledge to Mercy Hospital Grayling Emergency Department

In what she labeled as a "dream come true," Marie Brasza-Pinch walked in with the final installment to her family's $500,000 pledge to Mercy Hospital Grayling, realizing her deceased parents' wishes to help give the region a firstclass Emergency Department.

"Everything this space has become is way beyond my expectations," she said, shortly after delivering the check. "From the beginning, we knew we were funding a wonderful cause that everyone - from the CEO on down – made possible. It just goes to show what can be done when we as a community all pull together and give our support to something as important Emergency Department. The whole journey has been so inspiring and the results are living proof that our community cares."

Staff and visitors alike consistently comment that the 18,466 square-foot Brasza-Pinch Family Emergency Department, featuring 15 private treatment rooms, two trauma rooms, a three-shower decontamination room and a special waiting area for children, is "very functional and beautiful."

Traveling nurses have suggested that the facility's state-of-the-art technology, equipment, communications and security respiratory care and radiol- we can make a difference more information visit

"We're delighted to now provide our staff and physicians with a facility that will match the outstanding care they provide," she said of the renovation. "Patients are very complimentary of the care they receive in our Emergency Department the new setting has made it that much better."

The emergency department renovations were made possible from generous donations from area businesses, families, nonprofit organizations, seasonal residents and visitors. The Brasza-Pinch Family Emergency Department is a part of a long-term master facility plan at Mercy Hospital Grayling that began several years ago. The plan has included renovations in surgical suites, ambulatory surgery, the Maternal and Newborn Center, pharmacy and magnetic resonance imaging (MRI).

Currently, an additional $6 million in renovations are underway. A state-ofthe-art 64-slice CT scanner and radiology suite have already been added, and by fall, renovations will also be complete for the front entrance, registration and waiting areas, chapel, nuclear medicine, specialty/cardiology clinic space,

The two-year anniversary of the Brasza-Pinch Family Emergency Department grand reopening marks the end to a long, community-wide journey to excellence, said Brasza-Pinch.

"I am proud to have partnered with Mercy and to be a part of the continuing development of this fine organization," she said. "I encourage everyone to support our local hospital, because no gift is too small and every penny counts. Grayling plant blasts winter's blues

On Feb. 4, Springs Window Fashions of Grayling, in the industrial park, held a "Winter Blues" Blast' celebration for its workers. 100 Representatives of plant "bowled" work teams frozen Cornish hens at 10pin bowling lanes plowed out in the plant's parking lot. Non-bowlers competed with word-find games and all associates enjoyed a chili lunch.

Second shift coordinator Joe Pritchett and associate Neil Fulton led the "hen tossers" and won gifts for their moulding/sanding coworkers. Conciliatory gummee chickens went to the plant's shipping/finishing teams for its scoreless tosses. Associates Sue Good, Karen, Hawkins, and Jason Collen won the word-find contest.

The morale building event was the idea of plant spirit team leader Mary McQuade to chase away the winter blues. Plant manager Dan Heinz participated throwing three birds to break a tie on day shift.

Today, as a soloist, Brandon pushes the trumpet beyond limits with his unique style of playing, arranging and composing.

Rich and Brandon's 2005 CD release of Trumpet Invasion showcases creative adoptions of favorite works not originally written for the Variations on trumpet. Chopstiks, Mozart's Rondo alla Turk and Gershwins come alive like never before and have won the Ridenours national acclaim as a duo.

Besides programming great music for all ages, Rich and Brandon have a comedic presence that only father and son share on a stage.

At age 21, trumpeter Brandon recently became the youngest member of the prestigious Canadian Brass. He toured China, Poland, Canada and many U.S. cities with the renowned group and recorded two new Canadian Brass CDs.

Brandon was a featured soloist Marvin with Hamlisch and the National Symphony Orchestra in May and December of 2006 at the Kennedy Center. He toured Europe with the Juilliard Orchestra and played on two PBS Live from Lincoln Center broadcasts. Also in 2006, he won the International Trumpet Guild solo competition playing his own composition entitled Sonata for Trumpet and Piano.

Brandon graduated from the Juilliard School of Music in 2007.

Rich has built a formidable career performing concerts of great piano favorites ranging from classical masterworks to American ragtime, jazz and rock and roll.

Recently Rich covered for Peter Nero with two hours notice to perform Rhapsody in Blue with the Detroit Symphony at Orchestra Hall. He is a graduate of the University of Michigan and

Hidden sensors nab overweight trucks

by Tim Weatherhead Capital News Service

State Police and the Department Transportation (MDOT) are using sensors buried under Michigan's highways to crack down on overweight trucks.

Capt. Robert Powers, commanding officer of the State Police traffic safety division, said the new underground technology could be an effective deterrent to viola-

"Wireless 'weigh-inmotion' (WIM) sites are places where a sensor is buried in the pavement." Powers said. "When the truck passes over, the sensor measures the weight and speed of the truck. Then, an officer with a laptop at a remote location can monitor that and see if the truck is overweight.

"It's a lot less expensive than a typical weigh station, and legal trucks can continue down the road at a normal speed so it is very effective," he said.

The State Police and MDOT began installing WIM sensors in 2007. Currently, 20 WIM sensors are located around the state.

Lt. Rodney Bloss, of the State Police motor carrier division, is based in Traverse City and heads the division for 19 northern Lower Peninsula counties and the entire Upper Peninsula. He said the departments must be careful where they put their

"They have to be strategically placed where we have an officer who can work the area," he said. "We work very closely with MDOT and we have placed them where we think they can do the most good.

"It is something we recognize and need to be aware of so we can get the most bang for our buck," he said.

Powers said his agency has had positive feedback about the sensors.

"We installed one on I-75 in Gaylord, and within the first week an officer using it identified 10 trucks as overweight," Powers said. "He said that if it hadn't been for the new equipment, he would have let eight of the trucks go

Jack Peet, traffic safety manager for AAA Michigan based in Grand Rapids, said it's still too early to declare WIM sensors a success.

"In terms of new technology, there isn't enough statistical data to make an informed decision but anything that will assist in the efforts of deterring overweight vehicles from being on the road will be a positive," he said. "With limited resources these agencies need assistance in identifying overweight vehicles.

"It's a little early to say if WIM sensors have had an impact."

Violators face fines based on the amount of excess weight they're caught haul-

Powers spoke recently to the State Transportation Commission about the collaborative efforts of the State Police and MDOT, as well as WIM technology.

advisor Commission Frank Kelley agreed that WIM sensors could be the most successful method of deterring overweight vehi-

"It is the way to go in the future because it would make it easier for police to detect whether a truck is properly loaded on its axle," he said.

"It sounds like, in terms of enforcement, it's difficult to catch them the old way to the point where we have to use more technology than the truck drivers themselves are using," he said.

Powers said overweight trucks damage roads.

"Overweight trucks do a tremendous amount of wear and tear to our roadways," he said. "One truck with a legal weight causes the equivalent damage of 9,000 cars going over the same strip of road. That's what engineers tell us.

If a legal truck causes that much wear and tear, the effect of an overweight truck is exponentially higher."

Kelley said Michigan already allows heavier trucks than other states.

"Michigan has the highest load limit in the United States and for them to abuse that load limit is not right," he said. "Our roadways are already underfunded and they're deteriorating at a rapid pace."

Powers also said that overweight trucks are a danger to other vehicles.

"An overweight truck going down the road takes more time and distance to stop," he said. "Overweight trucks can't maneuver as quickly, and if they are involved in an accident, the damage they could do could be much more severe, so it's something we're very concerned about."

A total of $400 was raised at the euchre event. The golfing event earned $480. Another $80 was garnered, from a 50/50 raffle, for a total of nearly $960. All of the money

Grayling Township Supervisor Terry Wright said they are pleased to get the extra help at the recycling center. The job will be offered to people who have worked at the center on an on-call basis.

"We'll offer it to those folks first since they've been with us and if they don't want the position, we'll advertise," Wright said. Wright said a Crawford County Jail inmate and community volunteers provided manpower at the center this winter until the funds were in place. "That's helped an awful lot I think and we are operating and working very well," Wright said. "Prices are down for the recycled items but that is a fluctuat-

Crawford either support the recycling center or pay higher trash compactor fees.

"It's either pay now or pay later," Hanson said.

Although Grayling Charter Township administers the recycling center, the brunt of funds for countywide recycling comes from Crawford County.

Crawford and Otsego Counties owned the Waters landfill until 1991, when they sold it to Detroit-based Environmental Services (CES). CES sued the two counties for breach of contract when officials refused to make it legal for the landfill to expand its customer base to 13 additional counties.

Crawford County countersued and criminal charges were filed against the company when it from accepted waste Chippewa County, one of the 13 counties in question. Both sides dropped their lawsuit and the criminal charge was also dismissed in the 1996 settlement.

Under the pact, Crawford allowed County City Environmental Services to add the 13 counties through the county's solid waste management plan. The landfill also agreed to pay Crawford County $75,000 to $150,000 a year to hire an environmental monitor and pay for recycling. The landfill has changed hands a couple of receives depends on the amount of waste the landfill receives.

Crawford County Administrator Paul Compo said the county is projecting to receive $120,000 to $130,000 from the landfill this year.

The funds are used to pay Bruce Patrick, the county's environmental monitor, plus half the salary for Butch McLeod, the maintenance man for Crawford County. McLeod and Patrick transport the recycling trailers from the city and the townships to the recycling center to be unloaded and sorted.

The funds also pay for the county's annual household hazardous waste collection day and scrap tire clean-up. The funds pay to purchase and maintain the recycling trailers and for the truck used to haul the trailers. The county pays its dues to the Northeast Michigan Council of Governments, an agency that provides planning and grant writing services. The county pays $8,000 a year for an existing part-time employee at the recycling center.

Funds were used to demolish the old ambulance barns the county owned on Mercy Hospital Grayling property. Finally, the county paid $5,000 toward a storage facility at the recycling center and has funded an environmental grant program. The grants have been

"Every year is different," Compo said. "If we have the money, we try to help with whatever projects that are out there."

Compo noted that the county does keep a $100,000 balance in its recycling fund for years when the landfill collects less in tipping fees.

"We try to keep that fund balance for when the landfill does not have a good year," Compo said. "If we have more money, we try to do more things."

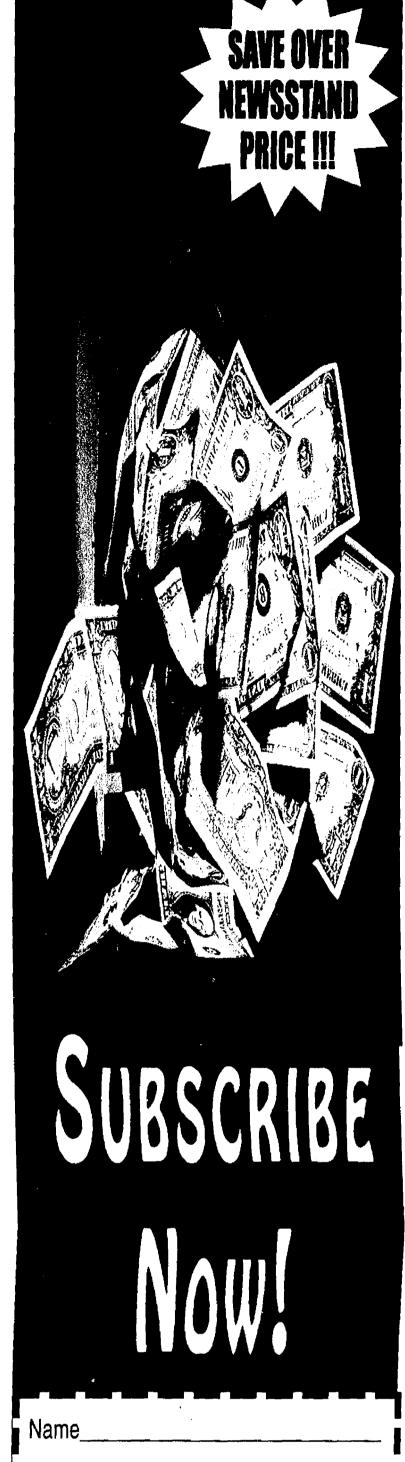

The county will receive funds from the landfill as long as it is in operation, which is another argument used to have local officials get behind recycling and to be more environmentally

"Everything comes to an end at sometime and they will find the bottom someday," Compo said. "That's just another reason why we have to find alternative ways to take care of our trash."

Patrick said the recycling center is something county residents should take pride

"For a small county in northern Michigan, we have a very good recycling program and we're fortunate that we have the funds to do that," Patrick said. "It is a service offered to the county that a lot of people take part in."

Marathon Pageant sign-up set for next week

by Matt Seager Staff Writer

Grayling High School (GHS) students will be adding an extra dose of style to the AuSable River Festival this summer, thanks to a brand new pageant designed to offer teenage girls a fun way to enhance important skills.

The brand new "Marathon Pageant" is directed by Grayling resident Crystal Filley. Filley began developing the event after the Festival Parade Committee suggested that this year's festival could use a pageant.

"There's just a strong interest now because it's been missing," she said.

There has not been a formal pageant in Grayling for several years. Filley's daughter, Fawn, who holds the Miss Teen Galaxy Pageant title, is co-directing the event. Fawn is currently a student at Saginaw Valley State University.

The event directors intend to make this a low pressure event. The Marathon Pageant will not be linked to the statewide pageant circuit.

"This is just for fun, not for major competition," Filley said.

Sometime during the next two months while the girls are training, there will be a break from the work with a pizza party and a swimming party that will be open to all participants. Filley emphasized that she doesn't want girls to feel like they're meant to be facing off against each other. In the spirit of inclusiveness, Filley is attempting to make pageant participation possible on virtually any budget.

"That's my goal, to keep it as low cost as possible for these girls," she said.

This means that there will be no entry fee and all pageant activities will be It is hoped that pageant ticket sales will cover costs.

"We're trying to break even," Filley said.

The event is also designed to help develop skills that will be useful throughout life, particularly in professional settings.

"This isn't a beauty pageant. It's just a pageant," Filley said.

Fawn will be working with the girls in key areas such as confidence in public speaking, successful interviewing, professional outward presentation and interpersonal skills. Practices will take place at Hanson

"She's going to be able to do a lot with these girls," Filley said.

There will be five official pageant judging categories. The first is "introduction," where participants must effectively introduce themselves to judges. Next is "interviews," where participants respond to a series of questions. In the third official category, participants must exhibit a talent.

The final judged category will be an evening gown competition. Although this may sound like beauty pageant territory, Filley insists that it is not.

"It's a confidence builder," Filley said.

She explained that the idea of this segment is for girls to exhibit comfort with who they are regardless of their body type.

In keeping with the low cost nature of the event, Filley hopes that some girls will take advantage of the school's prom dress swap for this event.

This project has already been in development for three months. So far, 46 girls have already showed a preliminary interest in participating. Final registration will take place at GHS on Mar. 13.

For judging purposes, it will be divided into two categories. The Jr. Miss Marathon Pageant will be open to freshmen and sophomores. The title of Miss Marathon will be open to juniors and seniors.

The actual pageant event will take place on May 9. It will be judged by experienced pageant officials from out of town. Filley also has plans to secure local entertainment for the event.

The winners will play a role in AuSable River Festival activities, most notably the parade. There may also be scholarship possibilities.

"We are very excited about making this pageant fun, entertaining and one that they will never forget," Filley said.

Two wrestlers qualify for state finals

Grayling falls to Roscommon in regional finals

Grayling High School wrestlers finished high enough at individual regionals on Saturday to qualify for the state finals. At regionals

Wednesday, Grayling's playoff run ended with a loss to Roscommon in the championship round.

On Wednesday night, Grayling was one of four teams competing for one state finals berth during the Region 117-3 tournament at Gladstone.

In the semifinals, the Vikings defeated Kingsford Roscommon 39-28. outscored Menominee 49-27 in the other semifinal match. In the finals, Roscommon won 57-24 vs. Grayling. "We got the (weight class) draw we needed and beat Kingsford," Coach Joe Ferrigan said. "The kids wrestled strong. They wantit to ed to make Roscommon."

Coach Ferrigan said that Grayling drew a favorable beginning weight class for the semifinal match, which helped the team build a lead vs. Kingsford; however, an unfavorable weight class draw vs. Roscommon worked against the Vikings in the finals.

"For Roscommon, we needed to start around 145, 152. The same thing happened to us. By the time we got to our best wrestlers, they were already too far ahead of us," Coach Ferrigan

On Saturday, five Vikings competed in the individual regional event held at Houghton Lake High School. Two Vikings – Cody Collen (145) and Shane Grove (171) - finished high enough (top four) to qualify for the state finals.

Collen finished third. He won his first match (vs. Pinconning) with a pin. He lost a 15-4 decision to a different Pinconning wrestler in his next match. In his third bout, Collen won 6-4 vs. a Kingsley opponent. He clinched third place with a win by pin vs. a Shepherd wrestler in his last match of the day.

Grove, who placed fourth, won his first match (vs. Saginaw Swan Valley) with a pin. He then lost a 7-0 decision vs. Kingsford. Grove won an 8-1 decision in his third match. In his final match, he lost by pin.

The individual state finals will be held at the Palace of Auburn Hills on March 12-

Vikings end regular season with losses to Gladiators

The Grayling Vikings ended their 2008-2009 regular season with a 46-27 conference loss to the Traverse City St. Francis Gladiators in a varsity girls basketball contest held at GHS last Tuesday.

Grayling trailed by 10, 18-8, at halftime. The Gladiators outscored Grayling 28-19 in the second half.

Grayling's leading scorers were: Laura Boylan, 12 points, 12 rebounds, 5 blocks; Ashley Feldhauser, 6 points, 4 rebounds, 3 assists; Sam Schreiber, 4 points, 5 rebounds, 4 steals.

"Tonight was parents' night. It is always nice to show our appreciation to the parents who daily support our basketball team," Coach Kelly Sheehan said.

The Vikings finished their regular season with a 4-16 overall record (3-11 league). Grayling will compete in the District 63-B tournament this Grayling High School's junior varsity girls basketball team ended its 2008-2009 season with a 62-25 loss vs. the visiting Gladiators of Traverse City St. Francis on Tuesday night.

"Not the way you want to end a season, but we did have a strong game at times and were able to break the Traverse City press pretty consistently," Coach Craig Hofman said. "We struggled defensively in the second half with our man-to-man defense and allowed (Traverse City) some easy baskets."

Grayling's leading scorers were: Shalee Miller, 15 points, 2 steals, 2 rebounds; Samantha Hansen, 2 points; Chloe Harwood, 2 points; Carlie Money, 1 point; Ann Hamlin, 2 points, rebounds; Haley Wiseman, 1 point, 3 rebounds; Hali Miller, 2 points, 3 rebounds.

"I am proud of the effort that the girls have given all year long and have seen great improvement over the course of the year in all aspects of the game," Coach Hofman said. "The girls need to make a commitment to working on basketball during the offseason so that we can get a strong start next year and not have to catch up in the beginning of the season. We have a lot of talent and athleticism, but we need them to go from being athletes to basketball players."

The Vikings finished the season with a 4-16 record:

"We lost eight games by less than 10 points. If we can increase our shooting percentage from the field and free-throw line by five to 10 percent, we could have easily been a .500 team this year. I am excited about the future of Grayling girls basketball," Coach Hofman said.

Vikings renew rivalry with narrow victories vs. Bobcats

Grayling wins 51-49, 62-59 at Houghton Lake

by Caleb Casey Senior Staff Writer

A rivalry reborn? Grayling High School's varsity and junior varsity boys basketball teams each played two games vs. the Houghton Lake Bobcats this season - including one series at Houghton Lake Middle School last Monday - and all four games were close, physical battles that came down to the final possessions.

(The teams played at the middle school on Monday due to a maintenance issue at the high school.)

"This was a great atmosphere for a high school basketball game at the Houghton Lake Middle School," said Rich Moffit, coach of Grayling High School's varsity boys basketball team, regarding Monday night's series. "This is going to be a great rivalry in the coming years with both programs having quality kids coming up. All of our games at all levels were very competitive."

, In football, the Vikings square off against the Bobcats every year. In boys basketball, however, the two schools hadn't shared a regular season contest since the 2003-2004 season.

"That was one of my projects when I first started," said Tim Sanchez, athletic director at Grayling High School. "We had to give up Gaylord for it, but we got Houghton Lake back on the schedule."

On Monday night, Grayling's JV squad held on for a 62-59 victory at Houghton Lake.

The Vikings led by six, 37-31, at halftime. Grayling took a 51-44 advantage into the fourth quarter. The Vikings led by 11, 55-44, with 4:13 remaining in the contest. The Bobcats battled back, and they cut Grayling's lead to three with two three-pointers late in the 37 with 5:24 remaining.

With 19 seconds left in regulation, Houghton Lake hit two free throws to pull within one, 60-59. The Bobcats fouled to stop the clock, and Zane Tobin converted both free throws. Houghton Lake missed a three-point shot and a putback attempt, and Jake Helsel came down with the rebound. Grayling won by

In the two JV teams' first meeting of the season - a contest played at Grayling High School on Jan. 20 - the Vikings won 63-57 in a similar game. Grayling led by nine, 45-36, going into the fourth period, but the Bobcats pulled within one in the final minute of regulation.

In last Monday's varsity game at Houghton Lake, Grayling led by as many as 10 points in the fourth quarter, but the Bobcats pulled within one in the final sec-

Grayling led by four, 26-22, at halftime. The score was tied at 37-37 going into the final eight minutes.

The Vikings opened the fourth period with a 10-0 run. The series included (in order) a drive by Colin Hamlin, a free throw by Eric Ferrigan, a three-pointer by Hamlin, a drive by Steven Enos, and an inside shot by Tyler Steffey. GHS led 47-varsity and JV teams, respectively, on Monday at Houghton Lake.

Houghton Lake scored the next seven points to cut Grayling's lead to three. A put-back by Spencer Dean at the 2:00 mark put the Vikings ahead by five, 49-44. A lay-up by the Bobcats

> The Vikings passed the ball around to kill time off the clock, forcing Houghton Lake to foul. Grayling missed the resulting free throw, but the rebound went out of bounds – last touched by Houghton Lake - giving Grayling possession. The Bobcats fouled again. Hamlin hit one of two at the free-throw line, giving with 25 seconds remaining. Houghton Lake hit a three-pointer with 16 seconds left in the period to pull within one, 50-49.

Grayling a 50-46 advantage

The Bobcats fouled Steffey to stop the clock, and he made one of two at the line. Houghton Lake got one final shot off - a three-point attempt from just inside the half-court line at the buzzer - and it missed. Grayling won by two, 51-49.

"The Houghton Lake game was a game of runs. Luckily, we had the last run and were able to hold on to the win," Coach Moffit said. "Our defensive pressure was a plus for us tonight as we forced 30-plus turnovers. This was a very physical game at both ends of the court."

"Spencer Dean played very solid for us. He had five offensive rebounds and led us in scoring with 13 points. Colin Hamlin played very well in the last quarter and Eric Ferrigan provided us with a real spark off the bench. Ryan Foguth gave us some quality minutes in the second quarter when Colin got into foul trouble. We had a number of kids contribute in a variety of ways," Coach Moffit said. "Good team win."

Leading scorers for Grayling were: Dean, 13 points, 7 rebounds; Hamlin, 10 points, 5 rebounds, 4 assists, 3 steals; Ferrigan, 10 points, 4 steals, 3 assists; Steffey, 7 points, 4 rebounds; Doug Gothro, 4 points, 4 rebounds, 4 blocks; Enos, 4 points, 3 rebounds.

Earlier in the season. Grayling defeated Houghton Lake 50-49 in a game played at GHS. Dean put the Vikings ahead by one with a put-back at the 0:04.7 mark, and Steffey preserved the win with a blocked shot on Houghton Lake's potential game-winning lay-up at the buzzer.

Sanchez said he expects Houghton Lake to be on the boys basketball teams' schedules next year.

"We have the two slots slated for them next year,"

Skier battles injuries, finishes 27th at state finals

Grayling High School skier Hannah Smith finished 27th in the giant slalom competition at the Division II state finals last week at Marquette Mountain. Smith, the only Viking to qualify for the state finals this year, earned a spot in the meet with a 7th place giant slalom finish at regionals. She qualified for the state finals last year also, but an injury kept her out of the meet. A recent injury almost kept her out of this year's state finals as well.

"This is an outstanding performance from Hannah. She deserved this more than anyone on the hill today,"

Coach Tim Gariglio said. "She suffered a major knee injury last year after qualifying for the state meet, ending her chance to compete. I doubted she would even be able to ski this year, let alone make it back to compete in the state meet. She did it through hard work, dedication, believing in herself."

"She skied seven days a week and (was) told to quit skiing on several occasions due to knee pain. Hannah had another setback the day before the state meet when she took a crash during a training run. Her good knee was injured on the fall, possibly ending her chance to compete at (the state finals) again. We took her back to the hotel room and iced her knee all night and by morning she was ready to go. She took a couple of runs on the hill and she was ready," Coach Gariglio said.
